

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my keen interest in the as an undergraduate in Software Engineering at METU now I enroll METU Cyprus Campus, I am eager to share my enthusiasm for technology, international cooperation, and creative problem-solving with your esteemed team.

Throughout my studies, I have established a solid foundation in programming, software development, and system thinking. My courses in C programming, data structures, and software design have given me the technical skills required to learn and solve real-world problems quickly. I am also busy with volunteer and leadership work outside school—most notably, over 10 years of experience with scouting, including being a team leader, guiding junior scouts, and organizing diverse group activities. These have refined my communication, coordination, and leadership skills, which I believe are just as vital in an international working environment.

What I am really looking forward to in this chance is the opportunity to be exposed to a diverse and creative ecosystem. I am energized by surroundings that encourage cross-border and interdisciplinary collaboration. Given that I am a flexible, curious, and eager-to-learn individual, I view this internship as a worthwhile step in the direction of being able to contribute to important, real-life solutions—while learning and growing both personally and professionally.

I would be thrilled to offer my enthusiasm, work ethic, and experience to your company. Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to speaking with you about how I can assist furthering your goals and objectives.

Best regards,

Mert Hamza Yilmaz
